City Opposes Increased Density Near NASA, Cites Traffic Impact

by Mary Lou Williamson

The City Council, at its regular meeting of July 13, quickly and with little discussion opposed the rezoning of a site on Greenbelt Road outside the city. Council based its decision on negative traffic impact on Greenbelt Road and council's strong opposition to the construction of townhouses on a tract where a master plan calls for detached housing.

The proposed zoning map amendment, A-9647, by Porten-Sullivan requests a change from R-80 (3.4 units per acre) to R-M (5.8 to 7.9 units per acre). A hearing before the county's Zoning Examiner is scheduled for August 5 in Upper Marlboro. Under the R-M zone the developer could construct between 155 and 170 townhouse units, instead of 79 detached units under R-80. This is an elongated 21.9 acre tract which touches Greenbelt Road opposite a closed entrance to Goddard Space Flight Center west of Soil Conservation Road. The property would be accessible only from Greenbelt Road.

Attorney Leslie Moore, of the firm of O'Malley, Miles and Harrell, representing the builder-contractor purchaser before the city council, argued that the change would be compatible with the Glendale-Seabrook-Lanham area Master Plan. That plan, she said, anticipates a total population for the neighborhood of 840 families.

The Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission's technical staff finds that the public facilities now in place will be adequate to serve that population. Because it is unlikely, now, that that population figure will ever be reached, Porten-Sullivan argues that the increased density they request will not violate the plan. Traffic studies, Moore said, show that the immediate intersections along Greenbelt Road will not be overburdened, although she admitted the Cipriano Road intersection would come within two cars per minute of unsatisfactory (or level E) service.

The city's Advisory Planning Board (APB) made no recommendations, but suggested the proposal is inconsistent with the area master plan. APB also noted their on-going concern about traffic conditions along Greenbelt Road in Greenbelt East. The city staff agreed with APB, adding its own concern that a change in the zoning could be used as a precedent for further efforts to increase densities in the area, and recommended opposition to the request.

Park and Planning's technical staff report also recommends denial, finding the requested change to be a significant departure from the master plan: first in the increased density and, second, in the request to build townhouses in a neighborhood that consists only of detached homes. The report also states that a traffic light would be needed at the Soil Conservation Road intersection.

Council wasted no time in telling Moore of its opposition. Council members Toni Bram and Ed Putens expressed concern about building too many townhouses in the area. Putens pointed out that within Greenbelt, at Greenbrook, Porten-Sullivan's own experience has been that their detached homes are selling better than their townhouses.

"Road conditions on Greenbelt Road are horrifying," complained Putens, who lives in Greenbelt East. Bram was concerned about the plight of residents who, at times, would be forced to make left turns across Greenbelt Road traffic upon entering or exiting the project, a situation she deemed very dangerous. Sooner or later, she warned Moore, residents would be forced to seek help — either a second entrance or a traffic light.

In an effort to derail the direction of council's discussion, Moore pointed out that the property is not within the city limits and that the council therefore should limit itself to addressing the impact of the development on the city — impact she called negligible — and not on the details of land-use.

"Why does this project come before us," wondered Bram, "if you now make the case that this is none of our business?" Petitions for rezoning of land within a mile of the city limits are automatically referred to the city for comment, though the city's opposition will not invoke the supermajority requirement when the matter reaches the District Council.

Moore expressed the permise of See COUNCIL, page 6

IT'S NOMINATION TIME AGAIN ... FOR CITY'S OUTSTANDING CITIZEN

by Virginia Beauchamp

That time of year has rolled around again for nominations for Greenbelters to receive the title of this year's Outstanding Citizen. This year is different, however, because we are celebrating the city's 50th anniversary. Like all the rest of the community, the selection committee will be taking a backward look. Besides choosing the winner for 1987, the committee on behalf of the community hopes also to honor all of the previous living winners at the Labor Day Festival in September, as well as to recognize the families of those who are deceased.

The Outstanding Citizens award, Greenbelt's highest honor, recognizes personal leadership and contributions that have benefited this community and its citizens. The major criterion has always been service to all the community — not merely exceptional service to one organization, since for such contributions, each organization can honor its own members in appropriate ways.

Over the years in Greenbelt, however, many individual residents have served as volunteers in a multiplicity of ways. Because their presence has made an important difference in the community at large, their contributions have needed a larger forum in which to be recognized. The Labor Day Festival provides that forum.

The name of this year's winner will be announced during opening ceremonies of the Labor Day Festival on Friday evenings and, as in past years, the recipient will become Grand Marshal of the Labor Day Parade. Customarily the award winner also receives a plaque, a savings bond and other gifts, as well as proclamations from city, county and state officials.

Qualifications

Nominations may be made by filling out the accompanying form in the Greenbelt News Review. Nominations from previous years may also be reactivated. If desired, they may also be updated. More than one person may collaborate in making a nomination, but all nominators must sign the form. Different persons may also submit different nominations for the same nominee, though organizations as a group may not submit a nomination.

To be eligible, nominations must be received by Sunday, August 16. Nominees must be Greenbelt residents. Current elected officials and political candidates are not eligible. City employees may be nominated only for activities for which the employee is not paid (excluding nominal payment).

The winning candidate will be chosen by an independent panel of Greenbelt citizens, who have already met to establish qualifications and to set this year's deadline. No deliberations will be held until after the deadline on August 16.

Requirements to Vote, Run In City Election on Sept. 15

Election Day for the Greenbelt City Council is just two months away on September 15 to be exact. All citizens should be aware of the requirements to make them eligible to vote or run for office. Here below are the regulations for citizen participation in the Greenbelt city elections.

Anyone who is eligible to vote in Greenbelt city elections is eligible to run for one of the five seats on the city council. The terms of office is two years. Members of council receive a salary of $4,000 per year; the mayor, $4,400.

Registration

Citizens may register at the city offices during regular office hours, Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Also, the city clerk has arranged for on-site registration from now until the books close at seven additional places. See city ad for these locations.)

Persons who cannot register at those times may request a voter registration form by calling 474-8000 or 474-3870 or writing to the City Clerk, 25 Crescent Road. (See city ad for more information.) The last day to register will be August 17.

Once registered, citizens need not reregister as long as they live here continuously, and have voted in at least one of the two previous regular city elections. If a person has never registered here or has moved out of town and then moved back or has missed voting in the last two city elections, it will be necessary to register again.

There were 2,806 registered voters in the city as of June 22. Of these 956 vote at Center School, 952 vote at North End School; 201 vote at Springhill Lake; and 697 at Greenbriar.

In 1985 there were 3,222 registered voters — 1,046 at Center School, 1,066 at North End, 245 at Springhill Lake, and 865 at Greenbriar.

Voting Qualifications

Citizens must meet the following qualification requirements in order to register in person or by mail:

1. United States Citizen.
2. 18 years of age as of September 15, 1987.
3. Domiciled within the corporate limits of the City of Greenbelt.
4. Of sound mind.

The city Charter defines "domicile" as the dwelling place which the voter intends to be his permanent home.

Running for Council

Anyone wishing to run for city council must do the following:

1. Obtain at least 50 qualified voters to sign a nomination petition form, which may be obtained from the city clerk. Married women who wish to sign a petition should use the form Mary Doe, not Mrs. John Doe. The records show the given name, and if the city clerk does not recognize the name in its married form, she may not be able to check and accept it.

2. Prepare a notarized financial statement on a form supplied by the city clerk disclosing financial interests for the period beginning January 1, 1987 and ending June 30, 1987. The report must list business entities and/or real estate in which ownership interests, as defined in the law, are held by self and family and also the source of specified income or debts.

3. Submit the signed nomination petition and financial statement, together with a written acceptance of the nomination to the city clerk no later than Monday, August 3 at 5 p.m.

One final requirement: candidates must file with the city clerk by noon of August 28 a notarized interim report showing all campaign contributions received in excess of $25 and the names of contributors. A final report is due on September 21.

If five candidates fail to win at least 40 percent of the votes cast, there will be a run-off election 7 days later (September 22). In the run-off election the ballot will consist of those unsuccessful candidates receiving the highest number of votes up to twice as many names as there are positions to be filled.

Festival Notes

It is not too early to think about ways to participate in the annual Greenbelt Labor Day Festival. Many activities require advance planning or practice. The festival will again feature art and photo shows for all ages. Now is the time to paint that winning entry or take the first-place photo. More details about the art show and photo show will appear in future News Reviews.

Carnival

Applications for a carnival booth have been sent to organizations that participated last year. Other groups interested in participating in the carnival using a booth or information table should call the carnival chair J Davis (345-3243) as soon as possible. In addition to explaining festival requirements, she can also offer suggestions for booth games or activities.

Parade

An especially big parade is planned for Greenbelt's 50th anniversary. The Festival Committee hopes that all Greenbelt organizations will march or have a float in the parade. Now is the time to get an idea and start planning for the parade. Contact parade chair Dick Semler (474-0885) as soon as possible.

Salute to Workers

An especially significant event over Labor Day weekend is the annual Salute to American Workers. Anyone who is interested in demonstrating an occupation at this event is urged to call Jean Cook (345-2597).

The Greenbelt Vision in Retrospective

Review of "New Towns" Conference

(Fourth in a series)

by Keith A. Winsell

One of the sessions at the May 1-3 "New Towns" Conference focused on the subject of "Greenbelt's Design and Architecture." The presenters were introduced by David P. Fogle, a specialist in historic preservation and Coordinator of the Urban Studies Program at the University of Maryland, College Park. He is also one of the authors of the forthcoming 50-year history of Greenbelt.

K. C. Parsons surveyed the contributions of architect and planner Clarence Stein. Parsons served as city planner for the city of Cleveland, Ohio as well as Dean of the College of Planning at Cornell University and is currently the Director of the Public Policy Program in Washington for Cornell. He is also editing the papers of Stein.

Stein should be given credit not only for designing Radburn, New Jersey (1929) but also for the "advancement of 'new towns' as a part of public policy." He was disappointed that he was not selected to design one of the "green towns" of the 1930s. His experience had given him a clearer understanding than many others of the actual "costs of various types of development." The "Tugwellian" planning group conducted much of their activity from the Walsh mansion in Washington, D.C., now the Indonesian Embassy.

A more subtle achievement of Stein was his lobbying activities in the late 1940s which ultimately helped preserve the New Deal communities. Without his influence there would have been a much greater probability that the communities would not have been sold to citizen groups by negotiation but "to the highest bidder."

In Parsons' judgment a major reason that the experimental towns were not more prevalent was a psychological one. "People tend to value their own private space more than public space. People want their car on display in the driveway rather than hidden away in a garage down the street."

Dr. Richard Longstreth, Director of the Graduate Program of Historic Preservation at George Washington University, presented a series of slides demonstrating other efforts in community development and "working class housing." Among the more famous ventures were Pullman, near Chicago, and Sinclair, in Wyoming. Other significant planned communities were Forest Hills, New York and Norris, Tennessee.

The "bungalow court," which characterizes much of the Los Angeles area, was also a related housing concept. Dr. Longstreth used an actual advertisement drawing for Encino (California) Park Homes which unintentionally shows the unappealing dominance of the automobile in suburban life.

The concluding speaker for this session was Dr. Richard Striner, Chief Historian of the U.S. Capitol Historical Society. He is also president of the Art Deco Society of Washington and played a major role in preserving the Greenbelt Center School, now listed in the National Register of Historic Buildings. He noted that there is a very close resemblance between the Center School and the Folger Shakespeare Library, which was constructed in Washington, D.C. in 1932.

Striner, who also conducted a tour of Greenbelt for conference guests, referred to the town as an "extraordinary cultural synthesis." In reviewing the "social and cultural antecedents," he explained the "planning frontier" represented by Lewis Mumford's Technics and Civilization, "nostalgic agrarianism" as articulated by historian Richard Hofstadter, and the inherent contradiction of "stability versus technological change," the theme of Leo Marx's The Machine in the Garden.

Greentowns Compared

Some of the similarities and differences in the three planned communities of Greenbelt, Greendale, Wisconsin (near Milwaukee) and Greenhills, Ohio (near Cincinnati) were demonstrated by a panel of the mayors and managers of each of these communities. The representatives responded to a series of general questions by Dennis Gale, Director of the Center for Washington Area Studies at George Washington University. Among the themes were the impact of automobiles, developers and the role of special segments of the population, including the aging and minorities. Donald Fieldstad, Jr., Greendale Village Manager used slides to show the current status of that town and to illustrate that the "green belt" was a distinct

"strip" inside the borders of the community.

None of the three planned towns has achieved the total unity of residential and work environments. David Moore, Village Manager of Greenhills, admitted it was "primarily a bedroom community." The main development at Greendale has been a large shopping center. Village President, Bernard Schroedl, indicated there had been no "high tech" industrial changes in the area. Mayor Gil Weidenfeld added that "up until six or seven years ago relatively few local jobs were available." Recent office complex buildings offer greater potential for nearby employment now.

Each of the communities has been affected dramatically by the automobile. May Susan Jones of Greenhills commented on parking problems. James K. Giese, Greenbelt City Manager, observed that the town has been divided into 11 segments by superhighways. Mayor Weidenfeld noted that travel to D.C. has been a constant issue and will eventually be partly resolved by a Metro stop in Greenbelt. Greendale has had a municipal bus line since 1938.

The interests of older residents, 18 per cent of the Greenhills, Ohio population are promoted by a Coalition on Aging. In Greenbelt, in addition to Green Ridge House, a 100-unit apartment project, there is an active Golden Age Club. Greendale, Wisconsin has 240 distinct housing units for senior citizens.

Each of the planned towns has been haunted by the racial setting of the 1930s. Conference keynote speaker William E. Leuchtenburg, in his 1963 study of Franklin D. Roosevelt and the New Deal, observes that no civil rights legislation was passed from 1933 to 1945 and "the New Deal's showplace communities were Jim Crow towns." When Eleanor Roosevelt visited Greendale she reportedly asked, "Where are the blacks?" Greendale had only 23 minority residents in 1980 and is currently involved in legal action regarding desegregation in the Milwaukee area. In the smaller community of Greenhills (1700 housing units) there has been a tendency for the original residents to pass on ownership to their children. There are only five nonwhite families in the town. Mayor Jones admitted, "there is no reason why we shouldn't have a better mix than we do."

A variety of factors contributed to Greenbelt's gradual change. Albert Herling pointed out that "D.C. was totally segregated at the time the town was built." Separate, but smaller, projects were being constructed for blacks, including one in the Lakeland area of College Park. Historian Joseph Arnold added that "local politicians favored discrimination" and the projection of an integrated community in 1937 might have prevented the project. Today, according to Mayor Weidenfeld, Greenbelt has about a 10 percent black population, mostly in rental units, and a total 13 percent minority population.

Each town has placed restraints on development. Greendale put its last marketable lot up for sale in 1971. The Greenhills "greenbelt" is protected by law. "Aesthetic considerations" have been considered in placing restraints on developers in the Greenbelt area. For example, Mayor Weidenfeld, in referring to the issue of the density of proposed buildings, advised "Don't accept what the developer says you must accept."

Former Greenbelt mayor and current Prince Georges County councilman, Richard Castaldi, was also a member of the panel.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE HOLDS LAST GAMES JULY 29

City Employees, Volunteers Honored

The city manager recently presented City Manager Awards to several city employees and volunteers. Celia Wilson, the city's Planning and Development Coordinator, was awarded for her efforts to revise the city entrance map by working until 3 a.m. to get it completed prior to the Greenbelt Conference on New Towns. Barbara Havekost and Dorothy Lauber, both city employees, were awarded for their volunteer staffing of the registration desk and for the preparation of improved name tags on a Saturday evening for the Greenbelt Conference on New Towns, sponsored by the 50th Anniversary Committee. Betty Lehman, who works for the Recreation Department, was also awarded for her volunteer staffing at the registration desk during the Conference.

Jay Brubaker, a Greenbelt resident, was awarded for his volunteer assistance in designing and printing the 50th anniversary city letterhead and fiscal year 1988 budget cover.

SENIORS' SOFTBALL

by Jerry Conway

On July 8, the Greenbelt Senior Citizen Co-ed slow-pitch softball team achieved a victory over Upper Montgomery by a score of 32-0 and earned a tie for first place in the eight-game series. The team was mentally awake and functionally alert, and demonstrated the best fielding and hitting power in the history of the team.

Jerry Conway hit three home-runs and a single; Bill Grennon hit two homeruns, a triple and a double for his wife, Hazel. The following team players each hit a homerun along with other hits: Mike Burchick, Jim McGann, and Burt Kerr. Each of the following Greenbelters hit three or more singles and doubles during this four and one-half inning game: Al Geiger, Ruth Wigley, Larry Noel, Ken Kroll, Tom McArdle, Tony Pisano and Jean Levesque. Greenbelt's team batted around ten players each of the four innings and left no one on base.

The Greenbelt Seniors will participate in the Maryland State Softball Championship at Olney on or around September 9. This game will be televised by Montgomery County Cable TV and the Baltimore TV stations.

In the meantime, Greenbelt Seniors will continue to practice on Braden Field each Monday from 9 - 11 a.m. to develop hitting and fielding skills. The team will also play practice games with other available teams on Mondays, Wednesdays or Fridays.

On July 9, Greenbelt scored a victory over Southern Prince Georges County by a score of 8 - 4 in a practice game at Braden Field.

House Passes Appropriations For Metrorail and Parkway

by Elaine Skolnik

In a late night session on July 13, the United States House of Representatives passed a multi-billion dollar Transportation Appropriations bill for fiscal year 1988 that will be of special interest to citizens of Greenbelt. Included in the measure was $197 million for the Metro subway system and $14.7 million for redecking the Baltimore-Washington Parkway. The Senate must also act on the bill before funds can be committed.

In passing the bill, the House adopted a two percent across-the-board cut below that recommended both by the transportation subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee and the full committee. The committee had earlier earmarked $201 million for Metro to help complete the long-delayed Green Line to Greenbelt by 1994.

Long-time Metro supporter Congressman Steny Hoyer, a member of the House Appropriations Committee, said: "The House approval of $197 million is a mixed blessing. It is an improvement over the administration's request of $130 million. The requested $201 million — the same as last year — is fiscally responsible and is the bottom line in order to insure completion of the Metro construction to Greenbelt as scheduled. I will be working with Senator Barbara Mikulski and lobbying the Senate to restore Metro funding to $201 million." (The Washington Area Transit Authority had proposed allotting $250 million.)

In fiscal year 1987, Congress appropriated $201 million, which assured construction of the College Park Station. Construction of the Green Line is now underway from Anacostia to West Hyattsville. In April, ground-breaking ceremonies were held for the Prince Georges Plaza Station, one stop beyond West Hyattsville, an above-ground facility located near the intersection of Hamilton Street and Ager Road.

Funding of the 89.5 mile subway system since 1979 has come from a Congressional authorization of $1.7 billion in Stark-Harris legislation. It is estimated that when the full system to Greenbelt is complete — Metro now runs for 69.6 miles to 64 stations—some $345 million will remain for acquisition of subway cars and getting the system in operation.

The Greenbelt station will be built on the Springhill Lake Industrial tract, south of the Beltway and directly west of the Springhill Lake Apartment development. A major access, Cherrywood Lane, will be widened and will eventually span the Beltway to connect with the Capital Office Park complex and Ivy Lane. The Metro rail yards will be located directly north of the Beltway and adjacent to the B & O right-of-way.

Parkway

The estimated cost of reconstruction of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway is $90 million. The $8 million appropriated by Congress in fiscal year 1987 allowed for completion of design drawings and for the beginning of construction of improvements to the ramps at the Route 193 intersection across from the Greenway Shopping Center in Greenbelt. Fiscal year 1988 funds would be earmarked for redecking, a process which requires digging up the asphalt and replacing joints.

What causes stains on teeth?

Most stains form on the outer surface of tooth enamel, and are caused by the foods we eat, as well as coffee, tea and tobacco. Stains of this type, although unsightly, are harmless and are not to be confused with tartar, a hard calcium deposit at the gumline which can cause gum disease. Both stains and tartar can usually be prevented by daily complete cleaning with toothbrush and floss. In cases of improper cleaning or poor alignment of the teeth, professional care will be necessary. Routine use of the so-called "whitening" toothpastes are to be avoided, as these products are highly abrasive to tooth enamel.

A second type of stain is below the enamel surface and can not be cleaned or polished off. These stains form during tooth development and are caused by such factors as high fever, certain medications and defective tooth formation. Modern dentistry makes available many ways to conservatively treat these defects.

the traffic-study limits, that traffic from the project — one car per minute during peak hours — would dissipate before reaching Greenbelt. But then she acknowledged the study shows that 60 percent of the vehicles exiting the project would head toward the Baltimore-Washington Parkway.

"Greenbelt Road flows as well as it does," commented councilmember Tom White, "because of the reduction of cuts." He echoed Bram's concern that once residents have lived in the project, "they're going to scream for access. People can't get out in the morning."

Mayor Gil Weidenfeld summed up for council: we have fought so hard to oppose townhouses on R-80 zoning because what Greenbelt needs is detached housing. Reducing density reduces traffic impact. You may only be talking about the difference between half a car and one car, he told Moore, but with each new development, those cars add up. "We'd be reluctant to say, 'when you get out of Greenbelt, it's okay.'"

Council voted 5 to 0 to oppose the rezoning application.

Traffic Light

Attorney Ed Gibbs, representing the Milton Company, reported "no good news." The Milton Co., which plans to develop Parcel 15 stretching from the Legion building to the lake park, has been working toward approval of a traffic light at the intersection of Greenbelt Road and Lakecrest Drive. The city, the builder and the county have agreed on the necessity of guaranteeing financing of the light before permitting construction. The builder, Milton, has agreed to finance the cost, but the State Highway Administration continues its opinion that the light is not needed at this time. The Lakeside Citizens' Association wrote to council strongly supporting the need for a signal. SHA has agreed to make another study after the development is completed.

The city council will take up the problem at its coming meeting with the County Executive Parris Glendening and will seek help through State Senator Leo Green. On his part, Gibbs said he would pursue talking with SHA officials. In response to a question from Weidenfeld, Gibbs indicated the Milton Co. would provide a bond to cover the cost of the light, should installation occur at some time after the development was completed.

Library Sign

Council found itself reluctant to say no on the next proposal.

The Greenbelt Library, well known to its immediate neighbors, is not always easily found by those who are unfamiliar with its location. The current sign, which is mounted on the side of the building facing Crescent Road, is obscured by substantial landscaping around the building. The library staff finds that some patrons have trouble finding both the building and the driveway entrance. Thus the staff seeks to put up two additional, internally illuminated signs. A 10 ft. by 3 ft. sign, mounted on twin 30 in. posts, would be placed perpendicular to Crescent Road. A second sign, 3 ft. by 18 in., also mounted on a 30 in. post, would mark the driveway. The proposal was sent to the city for review as a courtesy. The city has no jurisdiction over these signs.

In its report to council, APB recognized the need to better identify the building, but noted that since the two signs would be visible at the same point along Crescent Road, questioned the need for both. APB recommended the driveway entrance sign over the larger one, as fulfilling all the identification needs of the library. APB suggested the city also consider installing directional signs on Southway and Crescent Road to further assist motorists.

The city staff noted that Greenbelt has a history of success in limiting the "proliferation and size of free-standing signs within the city limits and finds it as important to encourage compliance from public agencies as private builders, if a pleasing yet functional streetscape is to be preserved."

City Manager Jim Giese added an alternative recommendation.

Because the larger sign has apparently already been manufactured, he suggested that the new sign be installed but the existing facade sign be removed and the second new sign be waived. Council agreed to ask for the APB recommendation first, with Giese's suggestion as an alternate.

Bond Issue Updates

Council heard an update from Giese on funding of the excess costs of the $6 million bond issue projects. Bond attorneys, in a preliminary comment, have told the city that borrowing $1,015,000 for less than 10 years could be done.

Council approved the publication of two progress reports which appear in this week's News Review. On the first, an update on each of the bond issue projects, council made a few minor changes. The second, concerning parkland acquisition, came in for some brief, but testy comments. White asked that the parkland lost should be factored into the report. For example, when Green Ridge House was constructed, the land was lost as recreational parkland, and later replaced. Parcel 8, where the police station will be built, will need to be replaced as open space.

Putens questioned White's premise, saying the police station and Green Ridge House were not a loss of parkland or open space. Council member Joe Isaacs, who had introduced the motion, rejected White's adjustments as unneeded. The heading, he explained, says "Land Acquisition . . . since 1977." Objecting to the decision, White voted against the motion, which passed four to one.

Land acquired by the city during the past ten years adds up to 108.03 acres — or, one third of all city-owned parkland — a figure which obviously pleased council.

Misc.

Council will add to the list of needed capital improvements the section of sidewalk along Ridge Road from 8 court to 4 court and then across the street, where Ridge and Crescent meet, across city parkland and joining the inner walkway in A-Block. Since Community Development Block Grant funds, which have been used to finance sidewalk construction throughout the Greenbelt Homes area, are no longer available, this project will now compete with other city improvement projects using other funds.

In items automatically dealt with through the consent agenda, council:

—approved a 50-foot-long right-of-way to the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission for an enclosed storm drain on the Schrom Hills park property.

—accepted a bid for the maintenance of radios for the police and public works departments by Teltronics, Inc.

—supported county legislation CB-86-87, which would return to municipalities the energy tax imposed for the first time this year on all users of energy in Prince Georges County. The city continues to seek state legislation to exempt municipalities from this tax.

—supported county legislation submitted by County Councilman Richard Castaldi (Greenbelt) to transfer $20,000 from the M-NCPPC's Park Fund Capital Improvements Program to the Recreation Fund for the Greenbelt Arts Center.

—approved continued employment by CARES of professional consultants Drs. Pelligrini and Molly Schuchat.

—approved filing of an application for a 1989 State matching grant to help fund space for adult day care facilities in the city (expected to be used to renovate a portion of the North End Center).

A woman walking in the rear parking lot at Beltway Plaza about 7:45 p.m., July 6 was the victim of an indecent exposure when a man drove up to her and began fondling himself in plain view. He was white, 18-22, 5'8", thin build, brown hair, wearing a white T-shirt with a black logo.

After stopping a car about 8 p.m., July 2 for an equipment repair violation Officer David Buerger found that the Maryland tags on the car were stolen. Inside the car he found a plastic baggie containing PCP-laced marijuana and in the trunk was another stolen Maryland tag and two D.C. tags which could not be confirmed as stolen. A three-year-old child in the car was taken to the station and later turned over to his mother. The three men in the car, a 21-year-old Greenbelt resident and two non-residents, ages 24 and 29, were arrested. One man was charged with two counts of theft and possession of a controlled dangerous substance. He was held on $10,000 bond. About 1 p.m., July 5 a security guard at Beltway Plaza approached a man in a white late model Ford Escort who had set off a pyrotechnic fireworks device in the parking lot. When asked to step out of the car the man backed the car up then drove it forward striking the guard. He then sped off on Greenbelt Road. The guard was transported to Doctors Hospital in a Prince Georges County ambulance where he was released after treatment.

Two men escaped with cartons of cigarettes they had stolen about 5:10 p.m., July 6 from Bud's Discount Store in Beltway Plaza. One was black, 25-27, 6'2", thin build, black hair, wearing a light green shirt and white shorts. The other was black, age 25, tall, thin build, wearing a light blue short-sleeve dress shirt, black sweat pants and a blue floppy hat.

Two men were seen stealing a purse about 7:40 p.m., July 7 from a shopping cart where it had been left unattended at Marshall's Department Store in Beltway Plaza. The suspects were black, ages 21 and 25. The younger man was 5'9", medium build, wearing a black Adidas sweatshirt. The other was 5'11", stocky build, wearing a grey Adidas sweatshirt.

A home on Maplewood Court was broken into about 3 a.m., July 4 through a kitchen door. The adjoining carport was then entered through the kitchen and a remote pager used to page an answering machine was stolen from the car in the carport. The occupant who had been watching TV in another room was unaware of the entry until he found the kitchen door open on his way to bed.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to break into an apartment through a sliding patio door about 4 a.m., July 4 in the 6100 block of Breezewood Drive. The suspect left when he realized he was seen in the act.

BARC Tract Sale Appears Blocked Through Rep. S. Hoyer's Amendment

by Betsy Likowski

The 13 acre parcel 5 tract of the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center (BARC) will not be sold off as surplus land any time in the near future and may never be sold. An amendment attached to the appropriations bill for the Treasury Department now pending in the United States Congress by Congressman Steny Hoyer prohibits the "surplus-ing" of any BARC property. Thus if this legislation becomes law, no BARC property will be sold off as surplus property.

Parcel 5 comprises approxi-mately 13 acres located north of the National Agricultural Li-brary on U.S. Route 1 between Sunnyside Avenue and Buchan-an Road. (See map.)

According to John Berry, Hoyer's legislative aide, the prospect of passage of the appropriations bill is very good.

This is the latest episode during the last five months in the shifting fate of this parcel. The parcel was to be on the auction block on May 27. But the auction was delayed in late March for 90 days when Congressman Hoyer talked with federal officials of the General Services Administration (GSA).

In early May the Prince Georges County Council requested that John Rhoads, chairman of the Prince Georges County Planning Board, obtain an appraisal of the value of the parcel. The council wished to acquire the parcel if the sale was imminent.

Local elected officials supported this action, including the Green-belt City Council and Senator Leo Green, Greenbelt's state Senator.

In a letter dated June 23, Rhoads informed County Execu-tive Parris Glendening and Coun-ty Council chair Hilda Pemberton that further county action on parcel 5 would be deferred since passage of the Hoyer amend-ment would block sale of the par-cel.

History

In recent years disposal of sur-plus lands has been accomplished under President Ronald Reagan's Executive Order 1238, dated Feb-ruary 25, 1982. This set up the Federal Property Review Board to screen available land for sale. The executive action was taken in the hope that sale proceeds would help reduce the federal deficit.

Over the years local, state and federal elected officials have re-sisted "excessing" of land within BARC.

The BARC Master Plan adop-ted in 1983 designated parcel 5 for grass research and future of-fice use. But in 1985 BARC officials said that the turf program could be accommodated elsewhere on the installation and future of-fice development was not expect-ed. In an April 4, 1985 report, the National Capital Planning Commission agreed that GSA should be allowed to sell 9.6 ac-res of parcel 5. GSA decided to put the whole parcel up for sale.

The above map shows the location of the 13-acre parcel of land.

Volunteer Team Readies Museum for Fall Openings

by Leta Mach

The grand opening of the Greenbelt Museum is scheduled for October, just a few months away. Planning for this event continues at an exciting pace. At its July 8 board meeting, the Friends of the Greenbelt Museum (FOGM) reviewed progress on the museum.

Restoration work on the interior of the building will return the rooms to their 1937 look. In the bathroom, wall tile and the shower have been removed. Other necessary work is cleaning and painting, much of which has already been done. Passers-by can easily view the results of the landscaping that has been done outside the home in 10 court Crescent.

Volunteers have put in many, many hours doing this work. Almost every day some Greenbelt citizen can be seen going into the home to donate time to the project. At the July meeting

GHI NOTES

A security seminar for members is scheduled for Wednesday, July 22 at 8 p.m. in the Board Room. See the advertisement in this issue of the News Review.

Barbara Havekost asked for and got volunteers for a painting work-day on Saturday, July 18.

Topics at the long board meeting ranged from plans for the October opening to preparation of the annual budget. Committees reported on recent acquisitions, interpretive programs and publicity.

The FOGM annual meeting has been scheduled for September 29. The agenda for the meeting will include the budget, the election of directors and an update on volunteer participation. FOGM president Don Volk and director Mary Lindstrom were elected to the nominating committee for FOGM directors. Any FOGM member interested in a position should contact the nominating committee.

CITY OF GREENBELT, MARYLAND STATUS REPORT on CAPITAL EXPENDITURES

The following is a brief status report of various projects for which bond and other funds are to be used. They are listed in order of priority set forth by the City Council.

I. New Police Station: Budget $1,875,000.

Site selected. Parcel 8 at Crescent Road and Ridge at Kenilworth. Final plans being prepared for bidding August 20, 1987. Construction to be completed in October, 1988. On schedule. Estimated cost-$1,875,000 plus $70,000 alternate for a two-bay attached garage for storage of confiscated vehicles and minor servicing of police vehicles.

II. Indoor/Outdoor Pool: Budget $3,175,000.

A. Renovate Outdoor Pool: Plans being prepared to reconstruct main city pool with new mechanical equipment. Pool to have new stainless steel gutters, a ramped to zero depth recreation pool area, and a turning wall for a fifty meter pool. No diving facilities. Bidding scheduled for late summer. Work to begin in the fall and be completed by Memorial Day, 1988. Project does not include bath house. Estimated cost - $375,000.

B. Construct Indoor Pool with Combined Bath House for Indoor and Outdoor Pools: Preliminary Planning Work prepared by architect. Estimated cost of indoor pool is $2,800,000.

III. Acquire Parcels 1 and 2: Budget $750,000.

City and owners have had on again - off again discussions with offers and counter offers, but no agreement. City is in process of obtaining appraisals of land value. Estimated cost - Unknown.

IV. Improvements to Schrom Hills Park: Budget $235,000.

PRAB has been doing preliminary planning work on facilities to be provided in this park. A topographic survey is being prepared. When PRAB develops and Council approves a concept plan, it will be necessary to employ a landscape planner to prepare construction plans. W.S.-S.C. is to develop a storm water retention pond with walk and landscaping around it. Pond construction is scheduled for this year. No estimated costs for improvements.

V. Other Park Land Acquisition & Development: Budget $1,015,000.

These funds will be used to undertake other park acquisition and development projects as yet undetermined. Some of the projects being considered are described below.

A. Acquisition of Surplus School Sites:

This is the 72 acre property at the end of Northway that was formerly part of Parcels 1 and 2. The School Board declared the property surplus in 1978 and transferred the land to the county. The county agreed last year to deed it to the city, and the state has approved the transfer. However, the state is requiring that the city or county pay all past and future outstanding debt on the land since the time it was declared surplus in 1978. The total amount of this debt is $457,800. A meeting with the County Executive to discuss this is scheduled for early September.

B. Acquisition of Private Property at Schrom Hills Park:

Two small parcels totaling just over 5 acres of private property bounded on three sides by the Schrom Hills Park have been approved for acquisition by the City Council. The city expects to receive State Open Space grant funds for financing this purchase in the amount of $170,000. The city is in the process of employing appraisers to value the properties. Actual costs of purchase could exceed the amount of the grants. Additional open space funds might be obtained.

C. Attick Park Improvements (excluding the lake):

There has been a master plan for Attick Park under consideration for many years, but never adopted by the Council. The plan provides for a variety of improvements including the building of a new group picnic shelter with restrooms and a new concession stand. Also under consideration is a new band stand or amphitheater. While no cost estimates have been prepared, for budget purposes we have used a cost figure of $300,000.

D. Braden Field/Candy Cane City Improvements:

Proposals for this area include renovation and possible re-layout of the ball fields and additional ball field lighting. Improvements to the so-called Candy Cane City area adjacent to the pool and between the parking lot behind the Center and Braden Field would be related to plans for the pools and for the Roosevelt Center. While no cost estimates have been prepared at this time, $200,000 has been used for budget purposes.

E. Greenbelt Lake Improvements:

The city is in the process of employing an engineering consultant to study the condition of the lake and make recommendations for improvements. The lake is heavily silted and some areas may need to be dredged. Repairs may need to be made to the dam. Improved sediment control basins on the tributary streams are being considered. Some shore line work might be necessary. At present, the cost of work to be done is unknown. For budget purposes, we have estimated $200,000.

F. Northway Fields Improvements:

It has been proposed that with the acquisition of the surplus school sites adjacent to Northway Fields this park area be expanded with additional specialized athletic fields for baseball, softball, football and soccer, and become the primary location for tournament and league ball games. With the complex would be field lights, announcer booth and storage areas, bleachers, rest room, picnic and parking facilities. There are no approved plans for these facilities at this time, and therefore, costs are unknown. For budget purposes, a cost figure of $610,000 has been estimated.

G. Perimeter Trail Park Improvements:

The perimeter trail is another park concept that is dependent on obtaining the surplus school sites at the end of Northway. With this acquisition, the city will own park land along the Baltimore-Washington Parkway from Gardenway north to the Agricultural Research Center and along the city border with the Research Center from the Parkway to Laurel Hill and to Research Road, except for a small gap of undeveloped GHI property. It is proposed to develop a hiker-biker trail through this park land which will be more than one and two thirds miles long and can connect to a number of city trails and sidewalks. At the southern terminus, the trail will connect to Greenbelt East via the Spellman Overpass.

A portion of the trail extending east from Laurel Hill has been constructed. A technical problem to be resolved is constructing the trail over an extensive flood plain at two locations. While there is a concept plan for this project, there are no design plans or cost estimates. For budget purposes an estimate of $180,000 is being used.

VI. Renovation of North End School:

The city acquired the school in 1984 from the county, three years after the Board of Education, closed the school. The school suffered extensive damage as the result of a burst water main, flooding the boiler room during the first winter it was closed. Estimated costs for rehabilitating the school range from $475,000 to pay off bonded debt, demolish and convert to open space, to $2,000,000 to rehabilitate the entire building. Council has allocated $400,000 towards renovation of this facility with the understanding the city will seek matching grants from the State of Maryland for a senior citizens' center and an adult day care facility. An application for a grant for adult day care is being prepared for August 3 submittal.

VII. Addition to Public Works Facility:

Architect selected, but no work done to date. Project to consist of small addition to office building, a second garage building (unheated) and a salt storage area. Staff estimate cost is $500,000.

Our Neighbors

We were saddened to hear of the death of Dorothy Pickard's husband Hugh. Mr. Pickard taught chemistry for many years at the University of Maryland. Greenbelt's high school instrumental music students have studied under or known Mrs. Pickard for the past 10 years at Eleanor Roosevelt and earlier at Parkdale. A memorial service will be held Saturday, July 18, at 11 a.m. at Riverdale Presbyterian Church in University Park. Donations are being accepted at the church for a memorial concert to be performed in the future.

Barbara Clements, Greenbelt Middle School, was one of twenty-five county science teachers who were honored at a Prince Georges County Community College reception for being selected to take part in a unique Leadership Science Teachers Institute. The Institute is an instructional program established to enhance skills of county science teachers. Selection was based on the strengths and diversity of their backgrounds and a recommendation by their principals.

A speedy recovery to J. Paul Williams, assistant public works director who has just returned from Prince Georges Hospital.

Happy birthday to Gene Diest who will be celebrating his birthday on July 21.

Michael L. 50 Years Ago
In Greenbelt

by Sandra Barnes

In August 1937, there was much written in the Washington papers and throughout the country about the cost of the new town of Greenbelt. According to The Sunday Star reporter, Thomas R. Henry, whose August 22 article on Greenbelt is included in Greenbelt pioneer Harry Falls' scrapbook, the cost of building each of the original 885 dwellings was $6,500—nearly two thousand more than had been anticipated. This amount was then added to the cost of building the lake, playgrounds, roads, schools, shopping area—and the total escalated to $15 million.

According to Joseph Arnold in his book The New Deal in the Suburbs, the actual cost was $9,909 per unit with a total cost of $13,701,817.

When Wallace Richards, coordinator of construction for the Resettlement Administration was interviewed, he justified the high cost on the basis of using quality materials. "The town was planned to last for 60 years with only minor changes and repairs," Richards states. The reporter comments, "It would take 60 years for the Government to get its money back, with interest, with the rent schedules adopted."

Costs further grew because of the use of transient often unskilled labor. "The cost of housing, feeding and transporting men . . . ran close to $500,000 . . . Greenbelt was never intended as a "business proposition," Richards tells Henry. "Nobody has ever claimed that relief labor is efficient." Other costs deemed exorbitantly high for the time were $600,000 for schools and $400,000 for water and sewage for a town planned to include 3,000 houses although only 885 were actually built. The most "ridiculed" cost, according to Henry, was that of $460,000 for "landscaping." "This includes $175,000 for building an artificial lake and the costs of parks, playgrounds, sidewalks, tennis courts, a bathing beach, etc." Writes a skeptical Thomas Henry, "It would take a far-seeing prophet to predict how much of American life will eventually be affected by what has happened in two years in this Maryland wasteland."

New Interchange Opens

On Tuesday, June 30, The State of Maryland Department of Transportation opened the new, full interchange at the intersection of Route 202 and the Beltway. This new interchange will greatly improve access to the Capital Centre and to Upper Marlboro.

Youth Problems Booklet

The Prince Georges County Federation of Teachers and the American Federation of Teachers has endorsed a new booklet for parents published by the National Association of State Boards of Education entitled "Helping Youth Say No." The 24-page booklet offers practical advice for parents on teaching their children how to cope with peer pressure on illegal drug use and a variety of other problems.
